Plot:

Earth gets struck by a Coronal Mass Ejection (CME) which caused all systems running on electricity to cease functionality at an instant. All Military, Medical, quality of life, food and water, factories, basically anything that is ran on electricity gone at a snap of a finger, and by the time they would have been repaired society has already collapsed in on itself. Chaos ensues as humanity seemingly grinds to a halt. Gangs of Bandits roam about killing as many innocent people as they can, stealing from the weak for their own personal gain, settlements of innocent people are sparse to say the least, and with very little resources life is harsh day in and day out. Abandoned cities become the norm as life becomes survival of the fittest on this kill or be killed desolate wasteland also known as the Earth.

Gameplay:

In the game you can choose to play many different ways including:

- You can set up settlements that will give you resources such as food, water or equipment required to survive, downfall of that is that you will also need to set up defences for your settlements to protect against bandits/outsiders intended on stealing all of your precious resources.
- You can go on your own, stealing from bandit camps or even civilian settlements, only caring to protect yourself as it's a dog eat dog world out there and nobody can be trusted with your hard earned resources, downfall to this would be you have nobody to watch your back and you would have to constantly fight for more and more resources just to keep you alive.
- You can become a bounty hunter travelling from settlement to settlement, getting bounties on the wasteland's most notorious bandit leaders, the more leaders you take out the less bandit camps will be set up thus making the wasteland a more livable space for civilian settlements. For each high ranking bandit you kill you will be rewarded greatly.
