Project Sad Game

Target Demographic:

- People who enjoy a dark, sad game that carries a lot of aesthetic behind it, people who enjoyed "That Dragon, Cancer"

Target ESRB Rating:

- Mature for depictions of Suicide and Alcohol/Drug abuse

Target Platform(s):

- Pc

Elevator Pitch:

- You play as a man who commits suicide in the opening of the game. The entire game depicts the unfortunate events leading up to this point as if the man's entire life is flashing right before his eyes. The game would start off nice and cheery and as time goes on the colors of each level would become less and less saturated and the character would see more hallucinations as the man is devoured by the loss of loved ones, depression, drug and alcohol abuse. Not knowing how to cope with all his struggles the game ends with his final dying moments, the game then switches to third person as the man's life leaves his eyes and his body is left lifeless.
